'Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy.'

Leviticus ch.19 v.2

Dover's White Cliffs

Based on an article by Steve Judd in the National Trust magazine Summer 2001

For centuries these cliffs have acted as a barrier to invaders from across the narrow strait that separates Britain from mainland Europe.

Dover's cliffs only gleam with whiteness after a rock fall which can happen quite quickly and without warning. This can often be caused by heavy winter rainfall, something that the National Trust frequently warns walkers about because more than a dozen such falls can occur in a season. This entirely natural erosion 'leaves behind a cliff face free of mosses and lichens, which otherwise discolour the cliffs'.

Another of Judd's comments made at the time is so apposite to the United Kingdom's present relationship with the European union.

'Physically we are moving farther away from Europe - whatever the politicians say!'
